

LEGISLATION IS UP TO SENATE

The Primary Bill's Fate is in the Hands of the Upper House at Present.

CLAIM THE VOTES

Supporters of the Measure Say They Have Fourteen Republicans Already Pledged for It.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 7.—If the senate does not pass the primary election bill as it came from the committee and went unchanged, through the assembly, it will have to take the responsibility of defeating the measure once more.

This is about the proposition laid down by the administration majority in the lower house, who are jubilant over the strong showing they have made there, and say that they have 65 of the 100 votes absolutely for the bill as it stands, and against any amendment. The conservative senators propose to amend it by eliminating state officers from the provisions of the primary system, or else by adding a referendum clause which will require the submission of the measure to a vote of the people before it can become a law. To neither of these propositions will the administration men consent, according to their present talk. They claim 14 of the 30 republican votes in the senate, and if they can get the three democratic senators they will have just enough votes to pass the bill. And it looks as if they might get them. Senator Merton, the democratic leader in the upper house, introduced a primary bill himself which differed in only two or three particulars from the one which passed the assembly, and one of his ideas, the provision that the voters at the primary shall express their choice for United States senator, was incorporated in the administration bill. It is believed that he can swing the other two democratic senators, North and Randolph, and if the administration men can hold the 14 votes they claim in the upper house for the assembly bill, it looks as if it would be concurred in by the upper house.

Railway Taxation
Next after the primary will come the railway taxation bills. The postponed conference of railway president and the committees on assessment and collection of taxes is appointed for the coming week, and it is reported that the railroad men will be prepared to raise their offer of a tax increase of $300,000 a year on an ad valorem basis. What the offer will be, or whether the committee will accept it, can only be guessed at. The administration forces have little doubt of their ability to pass both the primary and railway bills, but expect the fight of the session on the establishment of a state railway commission, with power to fix rates. They are not confident of being able to pass this measure at the proposition, and according to report are willing to have it defeated and carried over as the main issue of the next campaign. This willingness, however, if the report be true, will not keep them from putting up a strong fight for the proposition, which it is further understood will be made the subject of a second message from Gov. La Follette to the legislature, which will be no less strenuous than was his message at the opening of the session.

Coal Shortage
The last witness, and the one from whom some important revelations are expected in regard to the reasons for the coal shortage was examined by the legislative coal investigation committee Friday afternoon, after the legislature had adjourned. The witness was Thos. Gray, an independent coal dealer of Milwaukee, who told of the trouble that he found in getting coal for his customers, and why he was satisfied that there is a combination of Wisconsin dealers with the big eastern men. The committee will report to the legislature some time next week.

Spring Hunting
Some of the Wisconsin sportsmen will make a determined effort to secure the repeal of the law prohibiting spring duck shooting. The law was passed four years ago with the understanding that Illinois, Minnesota and Michigan would fall in line. They have failed to do so, and the Wisconsin shooters do not see the consistency of shutting the mouth of their spring sport, simply to give hunters across the state line a better chance at the ducks, and without accomplishing any substantial result in the way of affording protection to the birds.

JOINT COMMITTEE IS STILL WRANGLING

Miners and Operators Fail to Agree on Scale; Both Sides Standing Firm for Contentions.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 7.—The scale committee of miners and operators held two sessions Friday, and when they adjourned they stood practically where they were at the start, the miners making a number of efforts to secure a unanimous vote on the proposition to increase the wages of machine followers 19 per cent, but the operators standing firmly against it.

So little has been the progress made that the operators are discussing the propriety of moving for a permanent adjournment, and they would have done so but for the fact that they did not want to take the initiative in a movement that would result in a suspension of mining throughout the competitive district. They went so far, however, as to discuss the points which they would include in an address to the people if they are finally compelled to adjourn without reaching an agreement.

The places he patronized were those run by Richard Canfield, Phil Daly and Dave Johnson. It is stated by Hostetter's friends that in addition to the sums indicated by the checks he also lost thousands of dollars in cash. His passion for gambling, it is estimated, cost him at least $1,000,000 during the last twelve months of his life. The attention of the executors of the Hostetter estate was called to the gambling items by a suit just compromised which was brought by Dave Johnson to recover $115,000 on a note and checks given by young Hostetter just before he died.

EVANSVILLE BALL

Some Foolish Person Raised a Cry of Fire and a General Stampede Followed.

At the charity ball at Evansville on Friday evening a panic was started by some unwise person, who jumped onto the orchestra platform and after demanding silence announced that the building was on fire. He advised everyone to get out as quickly and quietly as possible and immediately there was a rush for the door.

The opera house in which the dance was held, was crowded at the time, and one of the two exits was barred by the piled up chairs. The narrow stairway was quickly packed with people and it was with great difficulty that the crowd was convinced that the fire was on the other side of the city. A call for the firemen who were attending the dance evidently was responsible for the mistake which came near resulting seriously. Fortunately no one was injured, a fact which is considered almost miraculous.

The marshal then drew his revolver and shot his son twice, inflicting wounds which may prove fatal. Both men are married.

TRIPLE SERIES OF BASKET BALL

HIGH SCHOOL AND ASSOCIATION FIVES LAST EVENING.

HIGH SCHOOL TAKES LAURELS

Association Gymnasium the Scene of a Rapid League Game After the Principal Events.

Six basketball team met in contest last evening. Four of them played under the name of the Young Men's Christian association; two upheld the honor of the high school. Two of the matches took place in the gymnasium of the high school, the other in the Y. M. C. A. gym. Both of the school fives emerged with victorious colors. The scores stood as follows: First teams—High school, 24; Y. M. C. A., 21.

Second teams—High school, 7; Y. M. C. A., 6.

Y. M. C. A. teams—Young Men, 12; Business Men, 6.

High School Match
A generous gallery witnessed the two matches which took place in the high school game. The playing was worthy of even more liberal patronage. The exhibition of basketball was fast, and the fives indulged in frequent stellar plays on both sides. Toward the end of the second half the audience well nigh went frantic in an attempt to express their admiration of the rival teams. These remarks apply to the contest between the first teams. The subs played during the intermission.

Victory went to the high school men largely as the result of Kent's faultless free throws. Out of eight fouls he eight times lodged the sphere in the netting, while the Y. M. C. A. percentage was .500, seven baskets resulting from fourteen fouls called. On the floor the work was even, the high school making a margin of but one basket.

The Second Match
Between the halves the second teams held forth, and the game that they played was well worth seeing. The men did not have quite the speed nor the accuracy of the first teams, but they were evenly matched and fought every point. The line-up is given below. The officials were the same as in the principal event, but the halves were only of ten minutes length.

The victory in the match went to the high school fives by a single point. High school, 7; Y. M. C. A., 6.

At Association Building
When these two matches had been fought, several of the contestants still had another battle to win or lose. Without being given time on civilian garb, the Y. M. C. A. players made for their own gymnasium, where several of them were scheduled to take part in an association league match. The two fives which were to have met were the Business Men and the Young Men, the latter being the regular association team. The Young Men, followed the line up which they had used in the first half of the earlier match, save that Griswold was substituted for R. Palmer, who played with the Business Men's team, had taken part in the earlier matches.

Owing to the late hour at which the contest was called, the struggle was continuous and was limited to twenty minutes of actual play. In order to further expedite matters no fouls were called and the resulting score of twelve to six in favor of the young men, shows the actual strength on the floor. Mack acted as official.

NO COAL DANGER ON NORTHWESTERN

Fear of a Coal Famine is Now Over, on That Road—Looked Dubious for a Time.

It is said at the North-Western roundhouse that the danger of a coal shortage on that road is practically past. There was a time when every day the fear grew that a suspension of at least part of the traffic was imminent. But relief always arrived just in the nick of time, and now little apprehension is felt for the future. The stringency of the situation has been relieved and hereafter it will probably be possible to keep abreast with the demands.

MISSING HEIR IS WANTED OUT WEST

County Clerk Starr Receives Inquiry About Brother of John McCuen, Late of Colorado.

County Clerk F. P. Starr has received a letter from Frank E. Eckel of Rye, Colorado, asking for information concerning an only brother of the late John McCuen, who recently died at Ward, Colorado. The letter gives no definite information beyond the fact that just before his death John McCuen stated that he had an only brother living somewhere in the state of Wisconsin.

The late John McCuen left a small fortune to which this brother, if he is still living and can be found, falls heir. Mr. Eckel is administrator of the estate and is very anxious to locate the heir. Similar inquiries to the one received by Mr. Starr have been sent to all the county clerks of the state in the hope that some trace of the missing heir may be obtained.

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Saturday February 7, 1863.—Jeff Davis' retaliation is censured in very strong language by the London Times, and the rebel president advised not to attempt its enactment, as it may cause him the loss of the friendship of both England and France.

By an arrival at Suffolk from Richmond it is learned that the new Richmond is lying between seven and eight miles below Richmond. It is pierced for two guns on each side, and will carry one forward and aft. The vessel is pronounced by many a failure, while others are confident of its success. Four other iron clads are in process of construction there. The rebels are throwing up earthworks in every direction for the defence of the rebel capital.

There are four hundred thousand acres of land in Rock county. It is safe to estimate that one-tenth of this will be sown to grain, making forty thousand acres. It will require ten thousand bushels less to sow this with a Richardson drill than to sow it broadcast. Any farmer who sows

GREAT SCARCITY OF GIRLS IS FELT

TOBACCO WAREHOUSES IN SORE NEED OF ASSORTERS.

ASSOCIATION ON PROBLEM

Organization is Trying to Feed Demand—Green Warehouse Headquarters for Positions.

Nearly two hundred more girls for assorting and sizing leaf tobacco are sorely wanted at the different warehouses in this city. "Girls Wanted" signs are displayed at nearly every warehouse, and the Leaf Tobacco Dealers' association, of which E. M. Calkins is secretary, is systematically advertising throughout the state in the hope of supplying the deficiency. The warehouse of J. L. and M. F. Green has been made the headquarters to secure positions for applicants, largely because of its location near the depots. A complete list of vacancies is kept there to assist in finding places for the girls who respond to the advertisements. Burlington, Monroe, Rockford, Milwaukee, and many other places have been drawn upon to supply the need, and even then the shortage is greater than the tobacco men like to contemplate.

Many Girls Wanted
M. F. Green places the number of girls who could be given work at two hundred. There is hardly a warehouse where tires or tour would not be gladly received, and in many places the want is much greater.

All of the assorters are very independent, and it takes a skillful foreman to avoid small difficulties with the girls. They are receiving good wages, and there is so crying a demand that they are in no fear of dismissal.

The wages paid are much higher than the scale for almost any other line of work for which the girls are fitted. Some of them, the tobacco men say, are making an average as high as $13.50 a week, and many make from $8 to $12 a week. There are practically none who cannot make a dollar a day.

Do As They Please

Under these circumstances the girl who feels in a mood for a vacation rarely hesitates to take it, and the owners of the warehouses are in such straits, for the most part, that they cannot insist on more regular habits. The number of girls who could be employed is usually almost unlimited, being regulated only by the available space, and the force of packers, all the employees in the warehouse being closely coordinated in their labors.

Almost every day a few girls apply at the Green warehouse to be assigned positions. Five or six came yesterday, and will begin on Monday for Cap. Campbell, and others made application today.

PRACTICAL TALKS TO JUNIOR BOYS

G. M. Brace Spoke This Morning to Y. M. C. A. Youngsters, Preceding Gymnasium Work.

According to their usual custom the Junior gymnasium class of the Y. M. C. A. met this morning. As is customary the gymnasium work was preceded by a short talk to the boys, the speaker on this occasion being Prof. G. M. Brace.

These Saturday morning practical talks to boys have been one of the valuable features of the work of the Junior department. For over a year the department has been in charge of Dr. F. T. Richards, and under his guidance the "character building" series of brief addresses has become of importance in the course of training which is laid out for the boys.

Subjects are chosen by the speakers which refer to some phase of character building. The object of the talks which are single and direct is to have the muscle-building, which is the function of the gymnasium work, go on hand in hand with the religious nature of the boys, neither being subordinated to the other. The talks are usually supplemented by object lessons and the free use of the blackboard.

Among the speakers who have aided in the work during the past few months in the instruction of the boys are Dr. F. T. Richards, W. F. McCaughey, G. M. Brace and several of the pastors of the city.

JUNIOR TEAM TO GO TO ROCKFORD

Boys Under Sixteen Years of Age Will Play in Association Match on Friday.

Athletic Director Hotelling of the Rockford Y. M. C. A. has written asking that the local association five play his representatives on Friday, the 13th. The date has been accepted, and the match will take place at Rockford. Two Janesville teams will be taken, the regular association team, and a Junior team, comprised of players under sixteen years of age. They will meet the Forest City Juniors, the match taking place between the halves of the Senior event.

H. I. McNAMARA VICE PRESIDENT

West Milwaukee Street Hardware Man Elected to Position in State Association.

With an entertainment at the Milwaukee Academy of Music by Milwaukee wholesale hardware houses, the sessions of the annual convention of the Wisconsin Retail Hardware Dealer's association came to a close last evening. The convention proper adjourned in the afternoon, and the evening was given up to amusement. The McNamara and Sheldon hardware companies of this city were represented at this convention.

At the election of officers one of the plums came to H. I. McNamara of this city. The following is the complete list:

President, L. Findersen, Green Bay; vice president, H. L. McNamara, Janesville; secretary-treasurer, C. A. Peck, Berlin, re-elected.

Among the subjects under discussion was that of driving the "cheap" stores into the channels of legitimate trade, offering goods at a uniform scale and also the subject of work done in cities by thimblets who are members of local organizations. Appropriations were voted to be applied toward the passage of the pending interstate commerce bill, a measure which the association has always favored.

BELOIT PEOPLE GO TO THE SERVICES

Rev. Biederwolf is Meeting with Signal Success—Churches Are Packed.

Beloit has been for a week and a half past experiencing a religious revival of widespread influence. The Rev. William E. Biederwolf is the evangelist and the audiences which have been attracted by his addresses have been of unparalleled magnitude. In every church where he has spoken the accommodations for listeners have been taxed to the utmost. Last Sunday a meeting for men was held in the opera house which attracted over 1200 men. Yesterday was termed mid-week Sabbath and services were held all day, almost without intermission. The first service was a sunrise prayer meeting.

STORIES FOUND HERE AND THERE

LITTLE INCIDENTS WHICH MAY BE FOUND AMUSING.

DOG DISPLAYS INTELLIGENCE

Resorts to Strategy and His Cleverness is Rewarded—Echoes from Card Tables.

Stories of canine intelligence are by no means rare and people are often as anxious to avoid the talkative owner of a dog as they are to dodge around corners to get rid of a lengthy and one sided conference with the proud parents of the cutest and brightest child in existence. Nevertheless the most cynical observer must admit that dogs, as well as children, often do the most unexpectedly clever things.

In a first ward home there is an intelligent little fox terrier that is an expert in the matter of looking out for number one. Two incidents which occurred recently illustrate this characteristic admirably. One morning not long ago the boy of the household, who is a student in the high school arose earlier than usual and went down stairs about six o'clock to do some extra studying. The dog jumped down from the easy chair, in which he sleeps at night and which he regards as his special property, and ran to meet his young master who immediately drew the chair up to the fire and took possession of it.

But the dog, having said his good morning, wanted the chair also and he proceeded to make his wants known in a manner that left no room for doubt. First, he grabbed hold of his master's trousers and tried to pull him from the chair and when that proved of no avail he jumped up behind him and tried to crowd him out. The boy was amused at the dog's actions but he was also determined to keep the chair so he pretended to be absolutely indifferent and remained unmoved, continuing his studying.

Finally the dog became discouraged and apparently gave up the contest for his desired place in despair. Disconsolately he jumped down and stretched himself out in front of the stove where, to all appearances, he was on asleep. After several minutes he pricked up his ears, and then ran to the door where he scratched and barked in seemingly eager haste to be let out of doors.

Naturally the boy got up and went to the door to open it whereupon the dog darted across the room and sprang up into the chair. His master was so pleased with the dog's clever strategem that the animal was left to enjoy its success, undisturbed.

Another Cute Trick

The boy's younger sister was interested in the other incident in which the dog manifested his ability to take care of himself. One day on her return from town she laid a paper bag of chocolate creams down on a chair and when she came back for them they had disappeared. No one in the house had seen them and after an extended search the maiden gave it up, very much puzzled over the mysterious disappearance of her candy.

Some time later, the paper bag, still containing a few candies, was found carefully concealed behind a cuspidor in the corner of the room. Members of the family then remembered that the fox terrier had been seen making occasional visits to that corner of the room and that mystery was solved. The dog had confiscated the bag from the chair and had stowed it away for his own private delectation. He was no glutton, however, and had contented himself with taking the chocolates one at a time, instead of devouring them all at once, as might have been expected.

Play for Odd Stakes

Card playing for prizes has come to be an accepted form of amusement in the home and while there are frequent bursts of disapproval against society gambling, the custom continues to prevail and to grow in favor. Some of the stakes played for are quite unique and in one instance at least the card game is made to serve a utilitarian purpose as well as an evening's amusement.

There is in this city a household in which a man and his wife and their son and his wife live together in that peace and harmony which is generally believed to be impossible under such conditions. Every Saturday evening these four congenial people play cards and zest is added to the playing by the fact that the couple which loses must arise early and build the kitchen fire every morning for the coming week. Frequently another game is played by the losing couple to determine whether the husband or the wife shall attend to this early morning duty.

The Vendetta

A very unusual scene is presented in Marie Correll's "The Vendetta," and that is the scene where Pablo Romani comes to life after having been buried in his tomb. It is rather a gruesome thing to see a man supposedly dead, burst the lid from his coffin and come forth. Even seeing it on the mimic stage it rather causes you to gasp and the cold shivers to play up and down your spinal column. We have read of these things, but this is the first play in which such a scene has been actually enacted. Probably after seeing the play you will leave implicit instructions to your friends that you are not to be tenderly laid away with undue haste. NEW YORK SHOW HERE NEXT WEEK

"Sally in Our Alley" To Be at the

"Sally in Our Alley," the new musical comedy written by George V. Hobart, with music by Ludwig Engländer and a host of novel stage "business" introduced by that past master of musical gaudies, George W. Lederer, will be the attraction at the Myers Grand, February 12, where it will be presented under the personal direction of its noted producer. In this, the conceded brightest of musical entertainments which Mr. Lederer has sponsored for many a day, the author, composer and producer have scored more than ordinary success. Ever since the production of the play at the Broadway theater, New York, it has drawn audiences large enough to test the capacity of that playhouse to the utmost, and the success, attending it was such that a very large amount of money was offered to the succeeding attraction to allow Mr. Lederer's brilliant gaiety to remain there indifferently, but the proposition not being accepted "Sally" had to take to the road. The cast in its entirety is said to number 100 people. Of these more than a score of popular localities for comic achievement. Conspicuous among the principals are Junie Moore, Tricie Friganza, Margaret Marston, George Schiller, Richard Fairleigh, Caroline Heustis, Tessie Mooney, Catherine Lewis, Frank Farrington, Frank Bernard, etc. The entertainment is intended to be precisely what its title might imply—a bit of clever amusing, up-to-date, diverting, theatrical melange. It has a plot, a story, a scheme, a throng of gay comedians, sweet singers, pretty girls and beautiful surroundings.

Musical plays are not celebrated for deep plots and all that is claimed for this is comedy satire. Still, there is a story and Sally's relation to it is consistent and continuous. The characterizations deal with low life of New York and with the swiftest of that big city's 400. The dialogue is up to the very minute and is said to be the brightest which Mr. Hobart has ever developed. Mr. Ludwig Engländer's musical compositions for this play are fully up to that brilliant musician's standard, and in it he is said to have introduced some of the most meritorious and catchy numbers that he has written for many a day.

STATEMENT BY MRS. EDDY

A Reply by Founder of Christian Science to Mark Twain.

In view of the circulation of certain criticisms from the pen of Mark Twain, Mary Baker G. Eddy makes the following statement:

"It is a fact well understood that I begged the students who first gave me the endearing appellation 'mother' not to blame me thus. But without my consent that word spread like wildfire. I still must think that the name is not applicable to me. I stand in relation to this century as a Christian discoverer, founder and leader. I regard self deification as blasphemous; I may be more loved, but I am less lauded, pampered, provided for and cheered than others before me—and wherefore? Because Christian Science is not yet popular, and I refuse adulation.

"My first visit to the mother church after it was built and dedicated pleased me, and the situation was satisfactory. The dear members wanted to greet me with escort and the ringing of bells, but I declined and went alone in my carriage to the church, entered it and knelt in thanks upon the steps of the altar. There the fore splendor of the beginning of truth fell mysteriously upon my spirit. I believe in one Christ, teach one Christ, know of but one Christ. I believe in but one incarnation, one Mother Mary, and know that I am not that one and never claimed to be. It suffices me to learn the science of the scriptures relative to the subject.

Christian Scientists have no quarrel with Protestants, Catholics, or any other sect. They need to be understood as following the divine principle—God, love—and not imagined to be unscientific worshippers of a human being.

"In the aforesaid article of which I have only seen extracts, Mark Twain's wit was not wasted in certain directions. Christian Science eschews divine rights in human beings. If the individual governed human consciousness my statement of Christian Science would be disproved, but to understand that spiritual idea is essential to demonstrate science and its pure monotheism—one God, one Christ, no idolatry, no human propaganda. Jesus taught and proved that what feeds a few feeds all. His life work subordinated the material to the spiritual, and He left this legacy of truth to mankind. His metaphysics is not the sport of philosophy, religion or science, rather is it the pith and finale of them all.

"I have not the inspiration nor the aspiration to be a first or second virgin mother—her duplicate, antecedent or subsequent. What I am remains to be proved by the good I do. We need much humility, wisdom and love to perform the functions of foreshadowing and forestalling heaven within us. This story is written in the furnace of affliction."

CLEVER STORIES ARE WELL TOLD

ASSEMBLYMAN VALENTINE AND EX-GOV. PECK'S OPINIONS.

PECK'S LETTER IS VERY GOOD

He Suggests Black Masks and a Stick of Dynamite as a Necessary Adjunct.

Assemblyman C. L. Valentine, former member of the state fish commission writes for the Northwestern Sportsman as to the present statutes of the game warden and the present laws protecting the game and fish of the state. Coming as it does from the pen of Mr. Valentine, who is as true a sportsman as Janesville has and in his present capacity as assemblyman from this district its contents will be interesting to all.

Northwestern Sportsman

In reply to your letter of the 7th inst., I would say that the sentiment expressed through the newspapers of the state, which if adopted would mean the wiping out of the present game warden system, should not be approved.

To preserve the fish and protect the game is the object of the game warden's department. Stringent laws for protection are in force and the enforcement of these laws must follow, or the object for which they were passed falls of accomplishment. It has taken years to bring the system up to an efficient point. The sale of fish taken from the inland waters of the state and the unlawful methods followed in procuring them have nearly depleted the inland lakes and streams of southern Wisconsin.

So with game, the untiring energy of those who pursue it with the sole object of gain has greatly reduced the supply. The prohibition of the sale of game with reasonable laws for its preservation would do much toward solving the problem of protection.

To my mind game laws should be as liberal as possible and their strict enforcement should be during the close season. The right of search conferred upon wardens should be exercised with great care.

The annoyance to which people have been put at some points in the state has become a nuisance, if one may judge from the newspaper accounts of these cases.

Personally, I don't believe that there should be any license required to hunt rabbits or squirrels, thinking it would be better to give the boys a chance to learn to use the gun on about the only kind of game left in southern Wisconsin.

Again, it would seem to me to be wise to license the dog in the hunting of deer, the open season of which is limited to twenty years.

It would save the lives of some of the hunters that are meeting their death in the woods each year. Respectfully yours, C. L. VALENTINE.

From Ex-Gov. Peck

Editor Northwestern Sportsman:

I do not care to go into the subject of game wardens, as I presume they are doing as they would be done by. I shall continue to obey the laws as near as I can, but it is expensive. No man can be sure that he is obeying the laws to the satisfaction of an army of game wardens. Last year I took a lawyer with me and got a written opinion from him always before I shot at a duck, again when I had the dog retrieve it, and also when I got the duck in my game sack on the way home, but after evading all the game wardens and getting the duck home I had to invite the lawyer to dinner to see that I earned the duck right, and had a Pinkerton detective to keep watch for game wardens until the duck was eaten. After that there is not much danger of being pulled by the game wardens, but, as I said before, it is expensive. I suppose the one duck I got last year cost me $75, but as I charged it up as a doctor's bill, and the exercise of getting the duck and dodging the game wardens made a well man of me, it was money well expended. I think the legislature will make some changes in the game laws. Maybe the game wardens will be granted letters of marque and reprisal, with power to rob the trains, the passengers and express cars. If so, I do not see why a game warden, with a mask and stick of dynamite, could not make a good thing out of the office.

I believe that a man living in the state should be considered a reputable citizen, if he takes out a license to kill, and not be classed with the horse thief and the burglar, on suspicion. I believe that the citizen of another state who pays his big license fee should be considered a guest of the state, and that game wardens should be instructed to help him in all reasonable manner to get some game to show for his money, and when he gets out of the state he should be treated well and made to believe that he is welcome in Wisconsin, and that it is the greatest state in the union. Too many come here for pleasure, spend a barrel of money, and because they have not hired a lawyer to go along and render opinions they are caught on a technicality, stripped of their game before they are awake in the morning and given the "ha-ha," their game hurried to the fish trust and maybe served for their breakfast on a dining car as they go swearing home, believing that all citizens of Wisconsin are as mean as the game wardens who held them up. Stop some of these things, and nobody will seriously kick if the game wardens do work a little in politics when their is an open season on stalwarts and democrats. Yours truly,

GEO. W. PECK,

Milwaukee, January, 1903.

PLENTY OF IT

Lots More Proof Like This and It Is All From Janesville People

"The proof of the pudding is in the eating of it." If any city or town in the union has sufficient proof on the following subject it is Janesville. Genuine merit is finding its reward in the hearty endorsement of local citizens. When people right here at home, friends and neighbors of our readers give a statement like the following for publication it is proof convincing for the most skeptical. Read this testimony:

Mrs. S. L. Belden of 64 S. River street says: "During two or three years I suffered most of the time with a terrific dragging down pain in my back just over the kidneys. It was very trying when I was at work and if I did any lifting my bladder became affected causing me considerable annoyance. I also had attacks of headache (which seemed like congestion in the top and back of my head). When I read about Doan's Kidney Pills I did not have any too much confidence in them but my daughter got a box at the People's Drug Co.'s store and persuaded me to use them. They took right hold and made a wonderful change in my condition. I hardly realized how bad I was until Doan's Kidney Pills brought me relief from the afflictions."

CATARRH CURED BY DRY AIR

Hyomel Medicates the Air You Breathe, Kills the Germs and Cures the Disease

Hyomel cures catarrh thoroughly and permanently, because it reaches the smallest air cells in the head, throat and lungs, kills the germs causing the disease and drives it from the system. Hyomel goes to the root of the disease, destroys the cause, and makes permanent cures which can be effected in no other way. Breathe it for a few minutes four times a day and benefit will be seen at once. Continue this treatment for a few weeks and Hyomel will have cured you.

The Hyomel in the inhaler furnishes the air you breathe. It is a local and direct treatment for eradicating all catarrh germs in the mucous membrane and tissues and in this way cures catarrh in any part of the system. Used in connection with Hyomel Balm it has been successful in curing the worst and most deep seated cases of catarrhal deafness.

A. W. Clark of Everett, Mass., writes, "I have spent a fortune on different treatments for catarrh and could not hear across the table. After using Hyomel and Hyomel Balm for eight days I can hear as well as ever."

Stronger than any claims that can be made in an advertisement, is the fact that The Peoples' Drug Co. will give their personal guarantee with every Hyomel outfit they sell (a months treatment for $1.00) to refund the money if the purchaser can say that Hyomel has not given satisfaction.

A QUESTION OF CHOICE

There comes in the experience of every boy and girl, a time in their lives when they are free from the restraining influences of home, and at liberty to choose for themselves. It is known as the age of personal responsibility, and it is the most important period that comes to any life.

The home may have been a hard taskmaster, and many of its mandates may have seemed unreasonable, but they were issued by mature minds, and if failure resulted the responsibility was not charged to the child.

It sometimes happens that the right to choose is assumed by the boy or girl while yet enjoying the privileges of home, for the discovery has long since been made, that compulsion is not effective when the age of responsibility has been reached.

When the boy of eighteen or the girl of sixteen deliberately decides that they will no longer attend school, there is but little use in compelling attendance.

If school were the only question that this class of young people assume to know about, the problem would not be so perplexing, but there are questions that have to do with morals and conduct, where the matter of choice affects both life and destiny.

There are some homes where the boy who has been the idol of the household, deliberately drifts away into sin. He chooses to ignore advice and remonstrance and becomes a moral wreck before he reaches his majority.

There are other homes where the daughter becomes weary of the monotony of home life and thoughtlessly ignores restraint, and refuses to listen to loving voices that seek to steady her through the period of foolishness that all girls encounter.

She chooses to be her own advisor, and moral wreckage or tarnished reputation frequently result.

There are boys and girls of this class in every community and what to do for them, or with them, is an unsolved problem. Some of them come out of christian homes and are not strangers to the church, but the fact is generally recognized that it requires more than a professing saint to win and train a child, and so these conditions are not surprising.

The class referred to are the exception, for most young people choose to do right long before they are ready to go out into life for themselves. They are susceptible to reason, and the only authority necessary in dealing with them is a clear statement of what conserves their best interests.

The question of good morals is firmly established in the minds of all young people who amount to anything, long before they leave home. A little observation, as they glance down the corridors of years that stretch out ahead of them, is all that is necessary to satisfy them that moral character is the foundation of success.

But there are other questions of grave importance that confront the army of young people, who throng the active threshold of life every year.

The school room has given them a knowledge of books, and some theoretical ideas of the great practical world that they are about to enter.

The home has sheltered them, but in many cases through lack of judgment or opportunity it has not been able to do much planning for their futures. If the father is a mechanic he is apt to imagine that his occupation is not the most important, and he is ambitious that his boy should take up a profession or become a business man. If the mother is the presiding genius in a lowly home, she aspires to see her daughter well settled in a more pretentious mansion, but they both discover that the boy and girl choose largely for themselves. The boy may take up a cheap clerkship and be satisfied, while the girl may fall in love with a preacher and become the wife of a country parson.

The matter of choice so far as occupation is concerned, is of vital importance. The ranks of toilers, in every department are crowded with people who have simply drifted into the positions occupied, without regard to adaptability.

It is a popular notion now-a-days that the proper definition for genius is hard work and that any man or woman can take up the work, at hand by persistent application, and win.

While there is some truth in the theory, it is very misleading. The genius for hard work is a good thing to possess, and it brings more or less by way of reward, but there is many an honest plodder, today, who might have been an expert, if in choosing his occupation his genius had been consulted.

It is a waste of time and energy, for a young man to spend his time in an office or behind a counter, when the natural bent of his mind is mechanical, and it is just as much a waste of energy for the boy of commercial instinct and no mechanical genius to squander years of development in the shop. Both will become honest plodders, performing their work faithfully and well, but neither will become experts.

There are thousands of bright intelligent girls wasting the best years of their lives in the school room, not because they possess the natural endowment so necessary to expert teaching, but because the calling is considered genteel, who could win more fame and money in some industrial channel.

This is the age of specialists, and the men and women who attain success, in any marked degree, belong to the class who took into account the promptings of genius, in selecting a life work.

Dishonesty is not very largely responsible for the failures of life, but lack of natural adaptability is. The business man who finds himself in the hands of the sheriff, after an unsuccessful career, is seldom accused of dishonesty.

His failure is not a matter of surprise to creditors, or to any of his friends who have observed his methods. He was never intended as a successful competitor in this age of keen competition. His mistake was honest effort unwisely directed.

There are many professional men whose income means a scanty existence, who might have occupied a place in the front rank of some calling more wisely selected. The question of choice is one of the most serious that comes to any life, and it is a question that the individual must settle very largely for himself.

The manual training department in the public schools today is furnishing valuable information along this line. It helps the boy, as well as the father, to determine the bent of the mind and the promptings of genius.

There is another field of individual choice where adaptability and genius are not considered, and that is the domain of upright Christian character.

Compulsion does not enter into the choice, for every mind represents a free will moral agency, capable of thinking and acting for itself. There is neither competition nor rivalry, except between the contending forces within, for the realm of the heart is a sacred precinct.

It is possible to make a failure of life, so far as realized ambitions are concerned, and yet be free from condemnation or criticism in the domain of character.

The wreckage of fortune, or blasted hopes, does not carry with it wreckage of character, in fact these disappointments frequently add to the lustre of the gem that is more enduring than fleeting success.

In the planning of life the immortal part of it was not neglected, and it was made possible under every condition, and in any environment, to develop pure white character that should stand the test of time, and the ordeal of eternity.

While the choice of an occupation is important and success depends largely upon the wisdom displayed, it is insignificant as compared to choosing the better part, which shall never be taken away.

SOME PERTINENT QUESTIONS

The Gazette published last evening another article from "The Observer" which contained some very pertinent questions. It is an old truism, that it is much easier to ask, than to answer questions and the rule holds good in discussing city finances.

The tax-payer always has the satisfaction of knowing that he contributed the money and that it is spent by men whom he helped to elect to positions of trust and responsibility.

That the money is not always wisely spent, is not a debatable question, and that it is sometimes squandered is sometimes openly charged.

The long delayed report of some of the officials who have the handling of the people's money, may clear up some of the fog that clouds the vision of the inquisitive "observer."

The increase in expenses seems to be out of proportion with the growth and development of the city, and not in keeping with a business-like administration.

There is one question connected with the affair that can be readily answered and that is: "Who is at fault?" Certainly not the officials for they did not elect themselves. Janesville has enjoyed just as good city government as the people will tolerate.

Public sentiment, and not the council, is responsible for extravagance and irregularities, if such have occurred.

The disposition to reform business methods is a good omen, because it means that the public conscience, at last aroused, and ready to atone for shortcomings.

The Municipal League has accomplished a purpose by furnishing a medium through which the public could act. It will accomplish vastly more if it will cultivate the field already so effectually entered. To do this it must combine with business, reform in political methods.

If it is possible, party lines should be abolished at the coming spring election, and a citizens ticket placed in the field that would command the respect and support of every voter who believes in a wholesome business administration.

If this is not possible, and there is some question as to its feasibility on account of the law governing party organization, then each party should be impressed with the fact that no man can be elected to office who does not represent the best interests of the city.

Permanent reform means electing to office the best men in the city. There is no lack of this kind of material in either party. It is simply a question of nominating the right men.

Public sentiment is thoroughly aroused and ready to act. There will be less scrambling for office, and more effort made to find the right kind of men who are willing to sacrifice time for the public good. Let the good work go on.

WAVE OF REFORM

All over this United States has swept a wave of reform. From north, south, east and west comes reports that cities have risen in their might and smote the evil doer on the thigh and swept clear their council halls of crooked legislators. St. Louis, Chicago, Minneapolis, New York, and others of our large cities started the crusade and kept it up to the bitter end. It has been a fight on the part of evil for a bare existence and in the cases of New York, Minneapolis and St. Louis light conquered might and new conditions exist. Janesville is at present in the throes of a reform movement. Not in the sense that the aldermen are hoodlums, the city officials thieves and blacklegs, but merely to do away with many abuses of the city affairs that have existed for so long that customs have become unwritten laws. In none of the many suits that have been brought or are to be brought has the real presence of crime been detected or open hoodlums charged but in order that the present state of affairs might be ended certain individuals have been picked to stand the brunt of the trouble and to tell what they know of the present abuses. A grand jury has been called to investigate the affairs and one of the aldermen is having an adverse hearing before a court commissioner to tell what he knows of the disbursement of city property from which no returns have been turned into the city treasury. The situation is not alarming but merely the usual manner to stop abuses and make Janesville a clean city—at least as to municipal affairs.

The primary bill has passed the assembly but when it comes to the senate the people, the taxpayers will have their chance to see the measure of one man modified so that a such a law is necessary it will be a reasonable one.

Milwaukee's grief over the death of her fire chief is most pathetic. They feel the loss keenly and that of the brave boys who followed him to death at his command.

By the aid of Chief Hogan some property owners have suddenly remembered they owe it to the public to clean their sidewalks.

Those gentlemen who have to walk up fifteen stories in Chicago realize what it means to have a strike right at their own doors.

Snow has brought back the bob sled and bob sleds have brought the farmers into town making trade good.

Madison is a good town these days. That is what the mayor there and others say but transient visitors say differently.

Janesville has several municipal affairs that are receiving a most thorough airing before the public these days.

It is not a question of actual crime and wrong doing. It is a question of what becomes of the money.

Rubino, who tried to kill King Leopold, believes he is a hero in the eyes of the people.

The grand jury has been called. What next?

APPLE SOCIAL WAS PLEASANT SUCCESS

Young People of the Presbyterian Church Enjoy an Evening of Novel Fun.

An apple social, which was held under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor society of the Presbyterian church in the church parlors, Friday evening, proved a success. It was largely attended and the young people had a merry time with various games and an impromptu musical program which included instrumental music by Miss Evelyn Packer and Miss Nettie Holt and a song by Little Ruth Kline.

One of the most amusing games was one from which the social took its name. Numbered slips of paper, each one bearing a letter, were distributed and then the people who had similarly numbered slips were requested to collect in groups. Each group found that their slips taken together spelled a certain kind of an apple on the charms of which they were required to write an eight line poem. These poems on various apples were read by a representative of each group with elaborate eloquence and furnished amusement, most of the jingles being very clever. The poem on the snow apple won the first prize, an immense apple pie, while the jingle on the green apple received the diminutive pie which was named as the booby prize. The prize winners were generous and the pies were divided among the entire company. Apples were also concealed in various parts of the rooms and those who desired to partake of refreshments were forced to search for them. The novel nature of the social made it especially enjoyable and everyone had a jolly time.

Mrs. Harriet Stafford The funeral of the late Mrs. Harriet Stafford was held from her home at 104 South Academy street at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Elder De Beers was the officiating clergyman. The interment was in Oak Hill cemetery.

NEWS OF THE CITY IN BRIEF.

Quite a number of Janesville physicians attended the meeting of the Rock County Medical society at Beloit last evening.

Harry Keller, formerly local superintendent of the Baines warehouse, has gone to Winsor to look after Mr. Baines' interests there.

John Taylor of Elmira, N. Y., is visiting his niece, Mrs. P. A. Whiffen, 123 Pearl street.

Wants A Raise in Salary: A bill to raise the salary of the state veterinarian from $2,000 to $3,000 has made its appearance before the legislature and is creating considerable talk and opposition. Many of the members think the salary large enough at present and that there are a great many veterinarians about the state that are willing to do the work for the present salary.

Attended Special Service: Rev. J. T. Henderson went to Beloit yesterday to attend the evangelistic services which are being held with such success under the auspices of the Baptist, Presbyterian, Congregationalist and Methodist churches. Rev. W. E. Belderswolf, the evangelist, was a college classmate of Rev. Henderson's and the two gentlemen are close personal friends.

Visiting Priest Will Preach: Rev. Father L. J. Vaughn, of La-Crosse will occupy the pulpit at St. Mary's church at the 10:30 o'clock mass Sunday morning.

She Knew an Allegator: A Third ward miss who has reached an age where she can read, but is not up on some of the big words she runs across, said to her father the other evening, "Papa, what does alle-gator or spell. Her father said "allegators." Oh yes, I know," said the young miss. "I have been in one."

Burned Her Hand: Mrs. Adah Johnston is confined to her home, 183 Madison street, having burned her hand severely yesterday morning. The injury is very painful and considerable concern is felt by her many friends who hope for her speedy recovery.

Just Learning Their Business. The naval academy authorities decide that the episode in which Midshipman Pearson, a New Hampshire boy, sustained a broken jaw, was not "hazing" at all, but a fight between Pearson and an upper class man whom he was told he "must meet." Just compulsory arbitration, that's all.

Seek New Fishing Grounds. As the seal fishery in the Behring sea has been a failure this year, the Canadian sealers are turning their attention to the Falkland Islands, in the South Atlantic, where seals are stated to be plentiful.

M'LEAN-HEARING STILL CONTINUES

ALD. M'LEAN'S ADVERSE HEARING IS CONTINUED.

FEW FEATURES DEVELOP

The Alderman Says He Burned His Books on the Work at the Crusher.

The examination of J. B. McLean yesterday afternoon developed a very little of importance outside of the fact that Mr. McLean stated that he had burned all the books containing the records of the stone crusher. He stated, however, that the book left by him with the city clerk and which was in use during the examination was made up from these books and was a record of what they contained.

Pierce Questioning
Mr. Pierce questioned Mr. McLean in regard to a number of livery bills which appear on the records, which Mr. McLean explained were used by him in going back and forth from the crusher when his horse was sick or out of service or to take visiting officials out to see the crushing plant. Mr. McLean also explained that the reason he did not draw his salary for 1929 until September 1930, was because he had heard some people threatened to get out an injunction, to restrain the city from paying the bill, and he thought he would give them a chance to do it.

Finance Committee
The examination developed the fact that Mr. McLean's bill for services were presented to the finance committee and O. K'd by Alderman Rice just before council meeting, so as to have it allowed before the injunction proceedings could be started. Mr. McLean stated, however, that he did not think he voted for their allowance.

The City Hall
The city hall question was taken up and Mr. McLean examined as to his part in making the changes in the stairway and marble wainscoting at the building. He stated that these changes in the building had been left to Aldermen Fifield and Gilkey by the building committee. That after the contract for the change in the stairs had been set to Rowson & Son, he at the request of Inspector O. F. Nowlan, who said the price was not right, got Mr. Rowson back here and succeeded in getting the contract price reduced to Mr. Nowlan's figures.

No Part In
He also declared having any hand in the change in the plans of the foundation of the building.

The examination was taken up this morning at 9:30, before Court Commissioner Oestreich. City hall matters were first taken up and the change in the stairway contract was given a further investigation but nothing of particular interest was developed as Mr. McLean showed that he was not the one in authority in the matter.

The operation of the stone crusher, the numerous accounts assigned to the workmen to McLean, was gone over and he was questioned closely in regard to several assignments made by him by the men. These were explained by Mr. McLean, that on account of the men living some distance away from the city hall and not wishing to come down town at night to get their money he drew it for them. The price paid Brierty & Caldwell for drilling the holes for the two or three big blasts that were made last summer was gone over and the assignment of one or two accounts was explained by Mr. McLean, who stated that Caldwell had borrowed money of him on one or two occasions and that he received his money when their accounts were allowed. The examination lasted all the afternoon and may take part of Monday to complete.

DOCTORS WENT TO MEDICAL MEETING

Attended the Monthly Session of the Rock County Association Last Evening.

For the first time the monthly meeting of the Rock County Medical association was held at Beloit last evening. Seven Janesville physicians were in attendance as well as a number from Clinton, Evansville, and neighboring towns. The session was held at the city hall, and was of unusual interest in the topics presented, aside from furnishing an excellent opportunity for the doctors of the county to renew old acquaintances and make new.

With one or two alterations, made necessary by the unavoidable absence of speakers, the program was followed as published. The Janesville members of the medical fraternity who attended the meeting went on the 7:10 car and returned leaving Beloit at 11:00. They were Drs. F. B. Farnsworth, W. H. Palmer, E. E. Loomis, Jas. Mills, S. D. Buckmaster, G. G. Chittenden, and R. W. Eden.

On the first Friday of March the next meeting will be held. Dr. Farnsworth will be the leader and it will take place in Janesville. The subject has not yet been determined.

TRIXIE FRIGANZA

Charming Heroine of The Chaperones Here With "Sally In Our Alley." Janesville theater lovers who saw the production of the Chaperones last season remember Trixie Friganza who took the part of the Chaperones in the play of that name. She will be here in the Sally In Our Alley Co., which will be seen this week at the Myers Grand in one of the leading roles. Her superb acting and charming stage manner have made her a favorite with Janesville people and her appearance with this company will add new interest to the production.

On Sunday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. building the regular meeting for men will be given up to the Murphy League. Their regular monthly session was to have been held last Sunday, but it was postponed a week in order to permit the Holy Cross Fathers to speak at that time.

Notices have been sent out by the Palmer House of Fond du Lac to the local hotels, warning travelling men to avoid the city during the three days from February 11 to 13. At that time the annual meeting of the Wisconsin Dairymen's association will be held in Fond du Lac, and the hotel accommodations will probably be pressed to the utmost.

LOSS IS ADJUSTED

Work on Settlement of Isabel Loss is Completed Yesterday.

The insurance adjusters at the Isabel factory completed their labors yesterday morning and made a satisfactory settlement to all concerned. It took the adjusters but a short time after the inventory was completed to come to a decision in regard to the loss.

Now that the insurance matters are settled the company will start at once to get things back into shape and get out their spring orders. The designer for the firm has been at work on his patterns since the morning after the fire and will have the stock ready for the hands by the time that the factory is in running order.

EXCITING RUN OF A SPIRITED TEAM

Horses Thrown Down by Force of Shock When Stopped by a Telephone Pole.

A pair of horses attached to a lumber wagon made a lively run up South Main street at about nine o'clock this morning. They came as far north as Racine street and there they collided with a telephone pole in front of George Barker's residence. The shock threw the horses down and smashed the wagon. By the time they regained their feet the people living in that vicinity had gathered about and caught them before they could do any more damage. The horses received a number of cuts and bruises and the wagon was badly smashed.

"It is true that we have made the purchase of Goose Island. Just what we will do with the land remains to be seen."

DINNER FOR TEN AT LITTLE COST

SERVED BY COOKING CLASS AT HIGH SCHOOL.

E. B. HEIMSTREET THE HOST

Entertained the Board of Education—$2.50 Covered the Expense of the Repast.

E. B. Heimstreet was the host at a novel and unusually interesting dinner party this noon, his guests being the members of the board of education, Supt. H. C. Buell and representatives of the city press. The dinner, which was served at the High school building by the cooking class of the school, was an evidence of Mr. Heimstreet's interest in the domestic art department of the High school and of his desire to give his fellow members of the board of education, a practical opportunity to see what the department is doing.

Origin of the Plan
The dinner was also the outgrowth of Mr. Heimstreet's astonishment and perhaps his incredulity over a statement made by Miss Thayer, director of the domestic art department, to the effect that it would be possible to serve a well-balanced and satisfactory dinner for twenty-five cents a plate, that amount to cover the actual cost of material used. He immediately requested her to prepare such a dinner for the school board, stipulating that there should be no donations.

Itemized Account Rendered
It was on these conditions that the dinner today was served and the members of the board were certainly surprised at the result. Covers were laid for ten people and the possibility of entertaining such a company at a three-course dinner where the actual cost figured exactly $2.50 would doubtless be a revelation to many housewives. As an unanswerable argument the artistic place cards, which were the handiwork of Harold Hall, contained the menu and on the opposite side was an itemized account of the materials used and of the expense of each article.

The dinner was prettily served at a long table in the sewing room. The menu was chosen on the basis of a well-balanced ration as well as on the consideration of expense. It was a delicious repast, the quality being excellent and the variety surprising under the existing conditions. It was served in three courses the following being the menu.

Menu
Steak with Tomato Sauce
Mashed Potatoes Creamed Peas
Bread and Butter
Fruit Salad Wafers
Cream Pie
Roquefort Cheese Crackers
Coffee

Young Cooks and Waitresses
The dinner was served by Misses Edith Green, Leafy Sherman, Maude Murdock, Lella Whipple, Amanda Oestreich, Bertha Rutter and Ada Longley, these young ladies being the Sophomore cooking class assisted by one representative from the Freshman and Junior classes. Under the direction of Miss Thayer these young ladies selected the menu for the dinner and did all the work of preparation. They received many compliments for the excellence of the dinner, for the dainty manner in which it was served and for the efficiency with which they waited on the table.

A Complete Success
Possibly no dinner party was ever given, the success of which was more gratifying to all the interested parties. Host and guests were equally pleased and the members of the board expressed themselves as indebted to Mr. Heimstreet in more ways than one for the novel plan which he had adopted in entertaining them.

Presented Boxes of Candy
At the conclusion of the dinner Mr. Heimstreet presented each one of the young ladies who served with a box of choice candy as a slight expression of his appreciation of their services. The carnations with which the table was decorated were the gift of Miss Maude Murdock a member of the class.

INCORPORATION NOW COMPLETE

ST. PETER'S EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCH ELECTS OFFICERS:

HOPE TO BUILD BEFORE LONG

About Twenty-Five Charter Members—Rev. Anda Will Continue in Charge Longer.

St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran church of Janesville is the corporate name which was decided upon last night for the newly organized English Lutheran church. Final steps were taken in the organization and all that now remains to perfect the body legally is to file the articles of incorporation. Instructions were given at the meeting in the Caledonian rooms to do so immediately.

In sight of the law the organization will then be complete, and it will remain for the church only to install the new officers who were elected last evening. That ceremony will be performed on Sunday.

Officers Chosen
Nearly all of the worshippers of St. Peter's church assembled in the Caledonian rooms last evening. Rev. Anda acted as moderator of the meeting, and the following deacons and trustees were elected: Thomas Erickson, Paul Iverson, S. Frederickson, for a term of two years; C. A. Hemmingway, A. Nassett, P. Anderson, C. Berkness for a term of one year. The trustees were empowered to file the articles of incorporation at once.

About twenty-five will form the charter membership of the church. It was decided to unite with the English Evangelical Lutheran Synod of the Northwest.

Rev. Anda To Remain
For the present the Rev. A. C. Anda of Chicago will remain in charge of the congregation, as hitherto. Students from the Lutheran seminary of Chicago will assist him in the services, and later on one will probably be assigned to spend his entire time here.

From the first of May and during the summer months one of the most able of the students will reside in this city. His entire efforts will be devoted to this field. He will be aided from time to time by others. It is expected that his congregation will soon be larger than at present, as several others have promised to join the church in the not too distant future.

Plan For Church Edifice
For the present the congregation will continue to hold its meetings in the Caledonian rooms. Plans are already on foot for a house of worship, not pretentious, perhaps, but ample for the needs of the church.

On Sunday there will be services as usual with Sunday school at 9:30 a. m. In connection with the morning service the installation of officers will take place, and the Holy Communion will be administered. The preparatory service will be held at 10:30.

Rev. Anda and the prominent members of the church, who have been identified with it from the outset, speak brightly of the prospects of the organization. The success attained thus far has equalled their most sanguine hopes, and presages a most prosperous future. Although the congregation is not large, the members are enthusiastic and unified in purpose.

Charles Young was at the Plankinton House, Milwaukee, yesterday.

Letter to C. Rice, Janesville, Wis.

Dear Sir: Some think we take a good deal of risk in inviting complaints of Devco Ready Paint—we authorize our agent to sell it under the guarantee:

"If you have any fault to find with this paint, either now in putting it on, or hereafter in use wear, tell your dealer about it."

"We authorize him to do what is right at our expense."

The following story tells how little the risk is:

J. H. Asher & Co., hardware dealers, Rhinebeck, N. Y., have sold Devco from '76 to now; and have had just one complaint in all this time.

Three sides of a house were perfect; the fourth was as bad as the three were good.

Explanation—it rained the night before the fourth side was painted; and the painters didn't wait for the wood to dry.

What is done in such a case? What over the dealer, who sold the paint, considers it fair to do. We leave it to him. He may not do exactly what we should if we were there; but we are not there. The best we can do is to leave it to him. Our agent in Janesville is J. P. Baker.

Yours truly,

F. W. DEVCO & CO.

THE MYSTERIOUS VISITOR IS NOW INVADING MANY HOMES.

It Strikes Young and Old, Who Are Physically Weak, and Predisposed to Disease.

Paine's Celery Compound

Fortifies the Body, Cleanses the Blood, and Gives Strength to Resist All Attacks.

That mysterious visitor, "Grip," is now invading many homes and striking down the young and old who are weak or predisposed to disease.

It is now well known that the disease spreads rapidly to the various members of the households into which it has been introduced. It accords with the theory of infection, also, that the disease has usually attacked the persons liable to infection. Dr. Samuel Selsky, in his book on "Epidemic Influenza," says the disease is almost entirely propagated by infection.

In past winter seasons it has been fully and happily demonstrated that Paine's Celery Compound is a tower of safety when grip is prevalent. When this scientific and healthful medicine is used, it strengthens the nervous centres of all the vital organs; it purifies the blood, regulates digestion, gives a healthy tone to the whole system, enabling young and old to feel secure from the ravages of disease. Weak, nervous, dyspeptic, and ailing people will find in Paine's Celery Compound a true benefactor and shield from the dangers of grip. A trial of one bottle will banish all existing doubts.

TRADE CONTINUES TO BE VIGOROUS

RETAILERS ARE DOING WELL

Wholesalers and Jobbers Report Steady Improvement, While Foreign Commerce Is Keeping Pace With the Domestic Situation.

New York, Feb. 7.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

"Vigorous vitality is conspicuous in trade and industry despite the handicap of overstrained and lamentably inadequate facilities for transportation. Concentrated efforts to reduce the congestion at a few favored points apparently intensified the blockades elsewhere, and inclement weather added a new disturbing factor to an already complicated situation. Every possible method is being adopted to improve conditions, enormous sums are appropriated for extensions, yet accidents and losses are frequent.

"Trans-Atlantic vessels failed to leave on schedule time and many manufacturing plants are closed in part or wholly. Labor disputes are more numerous, although not prevalent to any extent in the leading industries. As the season advances there is notable activity in building trades, with the customary acceleration of inquiry for materials.

Retail Dealings Are Firm.

"Retail dealings in most staples are fully sustained, especially of seasonable wearing apparel, but distribution at many points has suffered through weather conditions. Wholesale and jobbing trade is steadily improving, although deliveries cannot be guaranteed. Foreign commerce is keeping pace with domestic trade. Railway earnings during January were 8.6 per cent larger than last year and 17.7 per cent in excess of 1901.

"Cotton is strong, liberal exports and domestic competition more than neutralizing the depressing influence of heavy port receipts. Coffee aroused from its lethargy and advanced a small fraction because the world's stocks decreased much more than anticipated.

Shoe Factories Are Busy.

"Little new business has been placed with New England shoe factories, although there is sufficient work on hand to assure activity until late in March. Distinct improvement is noted in domestic buying of cottons; even at the highest prices buyers found difficulty in securing print cloth. In woolen goods there is steady absorption, with no speculative activity. Staple lines of dress goods are firm and moving briskly. Large consumption of raw material by the mills holds wool steady at the recent advance, despite a somewhat weaker closing at the London auction sale.

"Failures in the United States 263 this week, against 263 last week, 265 the preceding week and 261 the corresponding week last year, and in Canada 32, against 30 last week, 27 the preceding week and 25 last year."

KRUGER'S ILLNESS IS TRIVIAL

Alarmist Reports of Health of Boer Leader Are Unfounded.

New York, Feb. 7.—Friends of Mr. Kruger, the former president of the Transvaal, having received a message from Mentone stating that his health is entirely shattered, inquiry was made by cable and the following reply was received: Mentone, Feb. 6.—The report that Mr. Kruger's health is shattered is purely fantastical. His recent indisposition was of a very slight character and did not cause the slightest anxiety to his friends. His health is unimpaired.

COPPER CASE GOES HIGHER

Supreme Court Acts in Boston and Montana Litigation.

Helena, Mont., Feb. 7.—The Supreme court has issued a writ of certiorari in the application of the Boston and Montana for a writ of supervisory control restraining Patrick Mullins (Helms) from examining the books of the company in the Comanche case. This removes the case from the district to the upper court. The injunction in the Pennsylvania mine case secured by Helms also was vacated by the court.
